Feeling Lost?

Rob Lang · Wednesday, July 19th, 2017

Sometimes you've gotta wonder how you got to where you are. For instance, take this confused beaver:

The other kind of lost is when you know where you are, but you don't feel like you belong. This can happen in the animal kingdom when you have a group of amphibians who just won't grow up, like the proteidae—a kind of salamander that never reaches adulthood—and you're the only one who does reach maturity.

A word to terrarium owners: Newts do not enjoy the company of proteidae salamanders.

Good luck finding yourself!
