

Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

Free Poetry Course with Margaret Soltan

Cultural Weekly · Tuesday, June 12th, 2012

Standing at a lectern beside a grand piano, Margaret Soltan lectures from her living room. “I love poetry, and I think you should too!” she beams at the camera.

By day, Soltan is Associate Professor of English at George Washington University. But by days and nights, and weekends, and 24/7 actually, she’s online, delivering her passionate expositions on Wallace Stevens, Elizabeth Bishop and Phillip Larkin, parsing through difficult phrases and sharing her enthusiasm on her free poetry course.

It’s part of Udemy’s overall mission to disrupt and democratize the world of education by enabling anyone to teach and learn online.

For enrollment in the free poetry course, it takes just a click or two. Do it here: <http://www.udemy.com/modernpoetry/>

Photo of Margaret Soltan by Nick Gingold, Senior Staff

Photographer for the GW Hatchet.

This entry was posted on Tuesday, June 12th, 2012 at 10:55 pm and is filed under Poetry, Technology. You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments \(RSS\) feed. You can leave a response, or trackback from your own site.