

Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

Katherine Koch: Eight Watercolors from 2020

Cultural Weekly · Wednesday, February 24th, 2021

Katherine Koch has been an artist and a painter since her childhood spent with her poet dad (Kenneth Koch) and his artist-writer-friends.

Previously based in New York City—she now lives in Oaxaca, Mexico—as an artist, she’s known for her delicate, yet passionate abstracts. In these works from 2020, Koch expresses her thoughts in that most difficult of painting techniques—watercolor—of which she is a master.

Katherine Koch has a mantra that guides her, i.e., she paints ”all [her] thoughts.” So it’s natural that the images from 2020 bounce among worlds and dangers and people and colors. These eight abstract watercolors are seriously beautiful images, brave and hopeful. At the same time, perhaps they also express a certain sadness over the events of 2020.

Cultural Weekly is proud to present what amounts to a virtual art show featuring Katherine Koch’s 2020 watercolors—we hope you’re inspired to take the tour and enjoy the show.

—Mish

 Socrates’ Ice-Cream Garden

 Moving The Renaissance Furniture Blue

 Mary Ann’s Virginia Field in Fall

 Gliding on River Stones Blue Ridge

 The Nineteen-Sixties

 Circus Trick

 An Audience of One

 The Mermaid’s Green Room

Photo credit: Maricela Figueroa Zamilpa.

About the Artist

Katherine Koch, a visual artist and memoirist, has shown her paintings extensively in the United States, Europe, and Mexico. In 2019 her most recent solo show opened in San Pablo Etlá, Oaxaca, Mexico; her work was also featured in a group show at the Cynthia Winings Gallery, Blue Hill, Maine.

In addition to awards including residencies and a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts, she has worked collaboratively with writers, musicians, and theater artists.

This entry was posted on Wednesday, February 24th, 2021 at 12:48 pm and is filed under Visual/Design

You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments \(RSS\) feed. You can skip to the end and leave a response. Pinging is currently not allowed.