
Cultural Daily

Independent Voices, New Perspectives

Luis Bunuel Explains It All To You

Adam Leipzig · Thursday, February 23rd, 2012

This week the great Spanish director Luis Bunuel would have been 112 years old. His films were influential from the first (Un chien andalou) to the last (That Obscure Object of Desire), and never more haunting than the slow-motion dreams of Los Olvidados. Yet though he embraced surrealism, and his films often pry apart the seams of our normal world, he never left human emotions and relationships out of the frame; indeed his films tells us that relationships are all that matters. Here he is, recalling his early collaboration with Salvador Dali.

This entry was posted on Thursday, February 23rd, 2012 at 5:44 am and is filed under Film, Lifestyle. You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments \(RSS\) feed. You can leave a response, or trackback from your own site.