Susan Tepper & Digby Beaumont: Two Poetry-Visual Art Collaborations

Cultural Weekly · Wednesday, March 10th, 2021

Reaching for the Light

Some decent wine
half wheel of cheese
small silver knife
corkscrew
& two stem glasses
toweled in a basket.
We both took a handle
stumbling down
the bank to the river.
Stories were shared
all day and
under a sliver moon.
You moved into my place
I moved into yours.
Each day brought a different flower.

Platform Sandals

Faded red birds dart in & out of the brush
a few feet ahead of where you trod solitary
A path that changes abruptly:
smooth to cragged.
Seems a gift of friendship this following by creatures you can't properly name.
All appear faded by the elements some to rust. They're chirpy and they make you smile with their prancing company.
Someone gave you shoes
of this same shade.
You wore them out dancing 'til your ankles gave way sinking into softness that may be what it feels like to bury yourself in clouds.

The collaborations are by:

Susan Tepper is the author of nine published books of fiction and poetry. Her most recent titles are CONFESS (a poetry chapbook by Cervena Barva Press, 2020) and a funky road novel WHAT DRIVES MEN (Wilderness House Press, 2019) which was shortlisted at American Book Fest. Digby Beaumont is an artist and a writer. In his art, as in his writing, he is always exploring the idea of how best to produce some emotional response to the work. He is a self-taught artist. An interview with him about his art plus a showcase of some of his portraiture feature in the November 2019 issue of the online journal, Tupelo Quarterly. As a short fiction writer his work has been published in numerous print and online literary journals and anthologies. His collection of flash fiction, one-page stories, Dancing Alone and Other Lessons, was released in early 2020. Digby has also published numerous English language textbooks with Heinemann and Macmillan, including international bestsellers. He lives by the seaside on the south coast of England. You can see more of his work on his website: <https://digbybeaumont.com/> or on Facebook.
